

Jenny Hunt

Jenny is an award-winning journalist and communications executive who has written for publications such as The New York Times, Los Angeles Times, Washington Post and Emmy Magazine. Prior to joining Miller Ink, she served as head of communications for Roar Social, chief of staff for the Livable Communities Initiative, and communications director for the education nonprofit Speak Up. Jenny has had notable tenures working as TV editor for Variety and vice president of creative affairs at The Walt Disney Company. She spent 10 summers teaching journalism at Northwestern University's Medill Cherubs program.

Education:

B.S. in Journalism, highest distinction, Northwestern University

<https://www.northwestern.edu/magazine/summer2009/feature/botswana.html>